

Children's Day in South Korea

Children's Day, which happens on May 5th every year, is a special time for South Korean children! Their parents take them to the park for a picnic and kite flying, then they may go to a zoo or amusement park.

Here, Joy is playing with his new friends Ji-Oo and Hae-In. Hae-In is showing him how to fly traditional Korean kites, while Ji-Oo is enjoying some balls of nuts and dried fruit called jap gwa pyon and dumplings called mandoo.